NZSO goes 'Hear & Far'

The New Zealand Symphony Orchestra celebrates home-grown contemporary compositions alongside the works of international composers in 'Hear & Far', a fresh annual concert dedicated to Modern Masters.

American composer John Adams' riveting piece, 'Harmonielehre' was composed in 1985. This beautifully textured three-movement work was inspired by a dream in which Adams' was driving across the San Francisco – Oakland Bay Bridge when he saw an oil tanker on the surface of the water abruptly turn upright and take off like a rocket. Famously, this impressive work, which means 'study of harmony' in German, appears in the video game Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets.

Of his 2002 composition 'Orpheus in Rarohenga' composer John Psathas says "It's like a movie without the visuals... It's storytelling on a grand scale." Psathas' major oratorio was commissioned to mark the 50th anniversary of the Orpheus Choir of Wellington and tells a unique tale of Captain James Cook's 1769 voyage to the Southern Hemisphere, ostensibly to view the Transit of Venus but which also resulted in the European discovery of the islands of New Zealand. This voyage, and its resulting historical ramifications, are literally merged with the journey by the mythical figure of Orpheus to the Underworld.

This NZSO performance surprisingly features three New Zealand Youth Choir Alumni, soprano Jenny Wollerman, bass-baritone Paul Whelan and conductor Tecwyn Evans who will be joined by tenor Richard Greager and the Orpheus Choir.

Robert Wiremu

Vocal Consultant

Robert Wiremu studied at Victoria University of Wellington, University of Auckland and the Queensland Conservatorium of Music. He joined the first auditioned NZ Secondary Students' Choir in 1989, directed by Roger Stevenson, and became a vocal tutor and accompanist for the NZSSC some years later, under Elise Bradley. He sang under the direction of Dr Karen Gylls as a member of the NZ National Youth Choir from 1991 to 1994, participating in a tour of Canada and the United States, and since 2000 has been an accompanist and vocal consultant. He was also a representative for New Zealand in the World Youth Choir of 1994 under the direction of Robert Sund (Sweden). Robert has been guest director for the Auckland Chamber Choir and created the ACCENTS series as part of its annual programming schedule.

In 2013, the Auckland Chamber Choir will present the 5th ACCENTS concert featuring art music of New Zealand and the Pacific.

In 1999, Robert joined Voices New Zealand on tour to Singapore for the Asia South Pacific Symposium on Choral Music and to Germany for the 9th International Chamber Choir Competition in Marktoberdorf. He has featured as a soloist with the NZ String Quartet, recorded the Britten realisations of songs by Henry Purcell for Radio NZ Concert and featured as a soloist on the 'A Voices Christmas' CD.

Robert is a vocal coach at Auckland University and is in demand as an adjudicator, consultant and clinician throughout New Zealand. In his time working with choirs, Robert has developed diction models and technical tools that have been adopted by singing teachers and conductors throughout New Zealand and other countries. Recent artistic activities include 'An Evening with Simon O'Neill'; 'Kiri and Friends'; the George Benson Tribute Concert to Nat King Cole; presenting Michael Parekowhai's Venice Biennale 2011 entry, 'On First Looking into Chapman's Homer'; producing Rotorua's Opera in the Pa (since 2006); and directing Whaka-Aria Mai: opera in te reo for the 2013 Auckland Arts Festival. Since 2012, Robert has been the artistic consultant for New Zealand's leading vocal octet, V8 Vocal Ensemble.

THE WEEK THAT WAS!

NZYC in Aotea Square, Auckland >>

Carla van Zon, Artistic Director of the Auckland Arts Festival, poured lavish praise on the work of the five War Requiem choirs at the post-concert function, as did the CEO of the Auckland Philharmonia Orchestra, Barbara Glazer. The audience response was held in the silence, as Maestro Eckehard Stier ever so slowly bought his hands to rest at his side, at the conclusion of this phenomenal work. The critics' words in the papers, the live radio reviews and the NZ Listener were effusive. So many singers and artistic colleagues made this possible. The involvement gave our two choirs the opportunity to present a solo recital Little Britten, with James Tibbles (organ), and to provide the chorus for the Britten War Requiem. In addition to all this, and in the light of the 100th anniversary of Britten's birth, there were recorded rehearsal sessions and actual recording sessions scheduled throughout the week, to record three Britten works with organ accompaniment.

We would like to acknowledge the contribution of the Auckland-based singers, who were not CANZ choir members, and the fantastic treble choir (from St. Cuthbert's College and Westlake Girls' High School) trained by our own alumni, Megan Flint and Rowan Johnston, both members of Voices New Zealand Chamber choir and who sang in the War Requiem performance themselves.

There was an important 'premiere' for the CANZ choirs during this week: the Little Britten recital in Holy Trinity Cathedral was the first time that the NZYC (60) and VNZCC (16) had performed, separately and together, in the same programme... a bit like hearing a symphony orchestra and a string quartet in the same concert. This worked very well indeed – one radio reviewer described this concert as the musical highlight of the festival. We both had the opportunity to conduct our own choirs, as well as the combined ensemble of 76 singers, which made a most impressive sound. In terms of the quality of performance and musical outcome, these two Britten concerts were exceptionally rewarding for the choir members and audience alike.

The final day of the week saw 17 members of the 2011-2012 NZYC perform at the Auckland Arts Festival Family Fun Day in Aotea Square, and this was well-received by the audience and festival organisers.

We are very keen to see the two CANZ choirs work together in future, as this was probably the most enjoyable aspect of the week's activities.
